PERSONAL STATEMENT

I am a degree educated, self taught front-end developer with a serious passion for programming and a tenacious appetite for progression. I specialise in building stunning, responsive, user-friendly websites, tailored to my clients needs. I have spent 18 months building front-end projects and I'm currently working with a team of highly-skilled developers for a Bristol based company. My increasing devotion to problem solving and love for innovative and fresh design has truly confirmed my passion for development and to pursue it as a career.
